“Commenting on the launch of the new branch in Gift City, Abdullah Mubarak Al Khalifa, CEO of QNB Group, said on 7 May, "India's banking sector is poised for rapid growth on the strength of robust economic growth prospects, and banks have demonstrated strong operational performance along with improving asset quality. With the opening of the GIFT City branch, QNB is expanding its footprint at an opportune time when Indian corporates are seeking strong banking partners for supporting their growth plans.”

“Institutional investors are moving beyond conventional public markets to capture alpha through private assets,” noted Dario Schiraldi, Deutsche Bank's former Managing Director and now CEO of VIDA Holding. "Private equity and private credit provide exposure to high-growth sectors while insulating portfolios from short-term volatility—a critical advantage in dynamic economies like India.”

Arun Singh, Global Chief Economist, Dun & Bradstreet, said on 12 May, "India's macroeconomic near-term outlook signals cautious optimism, with the RBI steering a delicate balance between growth and macroeconomic stability. Prospects for the manufacturing sector appear strong, with expectations of a shift in demand from US firms moving away from China toward India. Inflation is low because of weak commodity prices, allowing the RBI to cut the repo rate again in April."
